DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments filed 2/27/04 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. The amendment filed 2/27/04 changed the limitation "single feed line" to "common feed line" and added the limitation "selected from said plurality of feed means". These changes do not change the scope of the previous claims. Additionally, the limitation "predetermined relationship" was changed to "predetermined sequential relationship". This merely makes explicit what was already implicit. The lot numbers and VIN numbers of Madden et al. constitute the "predetermined sequential relationship".

Applicant additionally argues, "The sequence of vehicles supplied from the storage lane 110A to the lane 114 is substantially independent from the sequence of the vehicles supplied from the storage lane 110B to the lane 114." However, processing station 112 controls the sequencing of all the lanes 110A to 110E. For example, Madden et al. states, "Processing station 112 determines...the order in which vehicles are removed from storage lanes 110A-110E onto lane 114" (col. 12 lines 40-45).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

3. Claims 10, 11, and 13-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Madden et al. U.S. Patent No. 6,516,239. Madden et al. discloses a method and apparatus for manufacturing products in a plurality of types having different specifications, the method comprising: a) manufacturing products from intermediate products; b) adding address information to the products, each address information uniquely identifying a respective intermediate product; c) transferring the products together with the address information from a plurality of feed means to a common feed line via a transfer means; wherein a sequence of the transferring in step c) is determined by storing a preceding address information in a memory associated with the transfer means, the preceding address information being the address information of a preceding one of the products that has been transferred to the common feed line, and transferring a subsequent one of the products selected from said plurality of feed means to the common feed line, the subsequent one of the products having address information in a predetermined relationship to the preceding address information; wherein the address information comprises positional information on the intermediate products which become the products; wherein said address information is added to said products when said products are manufactured from said intermediate products (e.g. col. 3 line 34 – col. 5 line 2, col. 7 lines 30-37, col. 7 lines 46-53, col. 8 lines 23-39, col. 8 line 61 – col. 9 line 6, col. 10 lines 37-55, col. 12 lines 29-45).

Allowable Subject Matter

4. Claim 12 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims. The prior art does not teach or fairly suggest that the positional information comprises slit numbers successively defined in a first direction of cut webs as said intermediate products and block numbers successively defined in a second direction which is substantially perpendicular to the first direction, in combination with the remaining features and elements of the claimed invention.

Conclusion

5. All claims are drawn to the same invention claimed in the application prior to the entry of the submission under 37 CFR 1.114 and could have been finally rejected on the grounds and art of record in the next Office action if they had been entered in the application prior to entry under 37 CFR 1.114. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL even though it is a first action after the filing of a request for continued examination and the submission under 37 CFR 1.114. See MPEP § 706.07(b). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
